The Code of Federal Regulations of the United States of America 2020-05-03 in this groundbreaking book bill price and david jaffe offer a new game changing approach showing how managers are taking the wrong path and are using the wrong metrics to measure customer service customer service they assert is only needed when a company does something wrong eliminating the need for service is the best way to satisfy customers to be successful companies need to treat service as a data point of dysfunction and figure what they need to do to eliminate the demand the best service is no service outlines these seven principles to deliver the best service that ultimately leads to no service eliminate dumb contacts create engaging self service be proactive make it easy to contact your company own the actions across the company listen and act deliver great service

Paranormal Attack 1988 undoubtedly emotions sometimes thwart our epistemic endeavours but do they also contribute to epistemic success the thesis that emotions skew the epistemic landscape as peter goldie puts it in this volume has long been discussed in epistemology recently however philosophers have called for a systematic reassessment of the epistemic relevance of emotions the resulting debate at the interface between epistemology theory of emotions and cognitive science examines emotions in a wide range of functions these include motivating inquiry establishing relevance as well as providing access to facts beliefs and non propositional aspects of knowledge this volume is the first collection focusing on the claim that we cannot but account for emotions if we are to understand the processes and evaluations related to empirical knowledge all essays are specifically written for this collection by leading researchers in this relatively new and developing field bringing together work from backgrounds such as pragmatism and scepticism cognitive theories of emotions and cognitive science cartesian epistemology and virtue epistemology
